SPECTRUM OC16® SPOTLIGHTS

Let's Kick It

The Prep Football season is finally here! Our 31st season of Hawaii High School Sports is underway and we're stoked to cover the very best from around the state. As we gear up for another year on the gridiron, here's a peak at a couple notable football games we have on Spectrum OC16.

AUGUST 9 - MILILANI VS CAMPBELL

Two squads that like to light up the scoreboard meet in game 1 of the regular season. Both are looking to fill positions under center with graduating quarterbacks Dillon Gabriel (Mililani) and, Krenston Kaipo and Kaniala Kalaola (Campbell). In comes two young QBs in Brendyn Agbayani (JR) for the Trojans and Blaine Hipa (SO) for the Sabers. Both have shown great promise this summer, with strong arms and smart decision making. It'll come down to both offensive lines to determine how successful each will be this season. Don't be surprised though if these two meet in the OIA final.

SEPTEMBER 14 - KAHUKU vs SAINT LOUIS

It's one of the most fierce and passionate rivalries the state has ever seen. Perennial powers Kahuku and Saint Louis will tangle at Aloha Stadium in mid-September. Saint Louis, the three-time defending Division 1 - Open champions, swept the Red Raiders last year with a stout defense led by seniors Jordan Botelho (Notre Dame commit) and Nick Herbig (Wisconsin commit).

Kahuku reached as far as the D1-Open semifinals a year ago and finished 2018 with a 7-5 record. Returning is quarterback Robbie Sauvao and linebacker Kana Fonoimoa-na-Vaomu. Both bring leadership and stability on offense and defensive, respectively. The big question mark is at running back. Can the Red Raiders find a steady presence on the ground to be effective in a tough division? Regardless of personnel for both teams, it's Kahuku versus Saint Louis. And whenever they square off, something special's is going to happen.

That's just a small taste of what's to come this year. For more info on the 31st season of Hawaii Prep Football, log on to OC16.tv.

Painting In Paradise Celebrating Hawaii Through Art

Patrick Ching shooting on location

Patrick Ching is a talented artist with a deep love for the 'aina and all of its inhabitants. His Spectrum OC16 show, "Painting in Paradise", teaches viewers how to draw and paint beautiful Hawaiian landscapes, plants and wildlife. Along the way, Patrick shares the fascinating history and background of each episode's subjects.

His artistic abilities took root at an early age. In kindergarten, his father taught him how to sketch horses. As Patrick developed a knack for drawing, his peers at school noticed how good he was and asked him to draw horses for them. This was just the beginning of his lifelong journey in art and conservation. At sixteen, while taking part in a wilderness program for teens, he saw his first Hawaiian hawks in Pololu Valley on Hawaii Island. This life-changing experience inspired him to dedicate his life to saving native Hawaiian animals through his art.

In addition to his works of art, Patrick's commitment to Hawaii's wildlife led him to serve as a ranger with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Kilauea lighthouse on Kauai. He also worked with NOAA and the National Marine Fisheries Service on the remote North Western Hawaiian Islands performing census work and observing the behaviors of monk seals, sea turtles and seabirds.

Before launching the show in 2016, Patrick appeared in a series of educational videos that were produced at Kalani High School that taught school children how to draw animals. The videos aired for 25 years and are still remembered by many students who watched them. Now, many years later, Patrick continues to share his love of art and Hawaii's animals as he teaches a new generation of viewers the joys of drawing and painting our island's wildlife. He shares: "My mission in life is to help people to express their inner artist, and in doing so, make the world a more beautiful place."
